

The only necessary calls to be made are “make” followed by “make test” from within the directory.

Fully Functional!

Note the methods used to calculate offsets/payload sizes, they are intricate and may be hard to follow, but function properly and are given comments that explain why they are necessary for a given subclass.